

Success for family trio

Urban Building Projects Ltd recently sponsored three members of their team in a quest to tackle the ever popular three peaks challenge.

Father, and ex professional Warrington Wolves player – Mark Forster was joined by his two sons, Chris and Danny as they took up the expedition in support of charity.

Over a gruelling weekend the trio managed to climb the highest mountains in Scotland, England and Wales. Ben Nevis, Scafell Pike and Snowdon proved to be no match for the boys who also play amateur rugby league together in the same Bank Quay Bulls team.

The audacious challenge was in support of a number of great causes including Macmillan nurses which meant the aches and pains were all worth it with a significant amount of cash raised.

Urban Building Projects Office Manager Nicky Palmer was delighted to support the lads and commented, "When we heard about this charity challenge we were keen to sponsor the lads. What they managed to achieve in climbing the three peaks was superb and it was made all the more special with the money raised heading to such worthwhile causes."
